1. This is an article written by a board certified Prosthodontist and he is a CDT. He has experienced both sides of the profession.
   a. True
   b. False

2. Dentists are creatures of habit. If they find something that works, they will stick to it. The author states that it is your job to shake it up and get their attention.
   a. True
   b. False

3. To attract new prospects, all that is needed is technicians that possess highly-tuned skills at setting teeth, layering porcelain and designing CAD/CAM framework.
   a. True
   b. False

4. The contemporary dental laboratory technician must become proficient at dental photography and be able to show future prospects a portfolio of images documenting their work.
   a. True
   b. False

5. Acquiring the kit necessary to produce great photographs is very expensive, but worth the investment.
   a. True
   b. False

6. The author states that when you purchase your camera set up, get a brand-new package deal online or in large electronic stores.
   a. True
   b. False

7. This author believes you must go to the dentist’s office to get live patient images to build your photo resume.
   a. True
   b. False

8. Most dentists have had adequate formal training or experience regarding high-end digital dental photography.
   a. True
   b. False

9. Most of your images will be fine and you will not need many before you get just the right lighting and composition.
   a. True
   b. False

10. The author states that a little time and effort on the front end has the potential for a massive return on investment on the back end and presents itself as a task certainly worth endeavoring toward.
    a. True
    b. False